Capped means there is a set limit to your internet usage.

Uncapped means there is a set limit to your internet speed (subject to our Acceptable & Fair Use Policy – A&FUP).

Why go Capped? Capped internet gives you a fixed amount of data that you can use (also called gigs or bandwidth), and the speed at which you can access the internet is dictated by the strength of your connection. Capped data has a higher quality priority on our network and is ideal for online gaming, VoIP, home, or business.

Why go Uncapped? Uncapped internet gives you an “up to x Mbps” connection, so you pay for the speed and not the amount of data you use. The data is shaped, contented and asynchronous.
